HUNG JURY IN BUCKLEY CASE

Positively Identified by Injured Man, but Two Witnesses Set Up Alibi.

[Special to The Times-Disputch.] PETERSBURG: VA., October 4.-Pe tersburg is soon to have another banking institution, the People's Savings Bank, which will shortly begin business in the building formerly occupied by the National Bank of Petersburg, located on North Sycamore Street, nearly opposite West Tabb, and now being equipped for the new bank. A charter has been granted to the organization, which is to have a capital of not less than $10,000 nor more than $100,000, and the following officers: Prosident, E. A. Hartley, vice-president, T. F. Heath; cashier, J. A. Johnston. All of these gentlemen are well known business men, Mr. Hartley being vice-president of the National Bank of Petersburg, and Capitain Heath a director in that institution.

Hung Jury in Buckley Case.

A hung jury was the result of the trial of Charles P. Buckley in the Hustings Court to-day on the charge of murderously assaulting and robbing J. L. Grimstead, a clerk at the Miller Furniture Company, who was found unconscious on the sidewalk in front of their store on Sycamore street about half-past six o'clock on the evening of June 13th last, his skull having been fractured and his head otherwise injured by some unknown customer on whom he had walted in the store. Buckley was arrested in a barroom here on July 17th, and was subsequently identified by Grimstead, who, on the stand to-day, testified as to the assault, and again positively identified the prisoner as his assallant. W. E. Brown, an employe in P. F. O'Connor's wine and liquor store in Washington, D. C., Buckley's home, and Frank Duffy, bartender at the same store, both swore that the accused man was in Washington on June 13th, the day of the assault on Grimstead in Petersburg. Robert Gilliam, Jr., counsel for the defense, asked an acquittal on the ground of mistaken identity, claiming that an absolute alibi had been established, against which Commonwealth's Attorney R. H. Mann urged the absolute identification of Buckley'by Mr. Grinstead. The jury stood ten for acquittal and two for conviction, and was discharged.

"To bear the name of Israel upon his heart continually, will necessarily bring the rabbi in daily contact with Israel's neighbors and friends. There in the larger sphere lies the largest duty of the rabbi. To bring about a better understanding between Jew and Centile: to establish friendly relations among them; to expound and disseminate the noble truths of Judaism; to explain the beauty and sublimity of Jewish doctrine whereby the name of the Jow will be more honored and the faith of Judaism more revered; such is the duty of the rabbi. This is the ideal I set myself to attain to. This is the duty of the rabbi. This is the ideal I set myself to attain to. This is the work I propose to do in the community. To bring into closer and friendlier relationship the people of this city irrespective of class or creed; to give our Christian brethren a truerestimate and consequently a better appreciation of Jew, while to you, my Jewish brethren, may I be able to foster in your hearts even a deeper love of, and a closer fraternal feeling for, our Christian brethren.
